Bay police have charged a Chalmette, La., man with four counts of burglary in Bay St. Louis and two counts of burglary and one count of attempted burglary in Waveland.

Richard Garbillo, 22, is incarcerated in the Hancock County Justice Facility under a $40,000 bond for Bay St. Louis charges and a $20,000 bond for Waveland charges.

Bay Detective Tom Burleson said, "We received a call of a burglary in progress at Corinth Drive in Bay St. Louis on June 20 at 6:30 p.m."

Officers Clifton Malley and Kevin Fayard and Sergeant E.J. Favre arrived on the scene and pursued two subjects, catching one of them.

Arrested was Anthony Joseph Wiltz, 25, of New Orleans, who was charged with burglary of a residence. Wiltz is being held in the Justice Facility under a $10,000 bond, according to Burleson.

Third child injured along Waveland beach

BY JACQUI COCHRAN

Waveland Police Chief James Varnell reported for the third time this month a child walked into the path of a vehicle driving along the Waveland beach.

Beatrice M. Rodriguez, 12, of Kenner, La., Varnell stated, stepped onto Beach Boulevard and into the path of pickup truck at 12:04 p.m. Saturday, across from a picnic area fronting Buccaneer State Park.

"Witnesses said she was almost hit before," the police chief commented, "when a vehicle had to skid around her."

Rodriguez was transported to Hancock Medical Center by Mobile Medic.

A HMC spokesperson stated Wednesday Rodriguez is being treated for a fractured leg. She was removed that day from the intensive care unit and is listed in stable condition.

Darren Ross, 5, of New Orleans walked off the beach at Coleman Avenue on June 5 and stepped into the path of a pickup truck.

Slow start for shrimpers

George Gotz, left, and his helper sort shrimp at the American Legion pier at the end of Washington Street in Bay St. Louis on Tuesday, the first day of shrimping season. Gotz said he had not caught many shrimp. Kirk Ladner of Ladner's Seafood said catches were "slow, slow, slow," and high winds last week and rain this week had "stirred up" the shrimp. He said he would know whether catches would pick up when boats come in this weekend. (Echo staff photo by David A. Farrell)

Casino World

Europa Cruises buys Diamondhead land for casino; residents have mixed emotions

BY DAVID A. FARRELL

Mississippi Gaming Corp. officials said Monday they had exercised an option to purchase 404.5 acres near Diamondhead to develop a dockside gambling casino resort, which will be called Casino World.

The $4 million option was negotiated with Purcell Co. Inc., which developed the residential property now known as Diamondhead.

The casino resort will be located south of I-10 near the Harrison County line across the bay from Bay St. Louis, officials said. The land is east of the Diamondhead Yacht Club.

Mississippi Gaming Corp. is a wholly-owned subsidiary of Europa Cruises Corp., a Florida-based company operating in the leisure and casino industry. It mainly operates gambling cruise ships along the Florida coast and operated another Europa Cruises subsidiary. Officials said the development will include, besides a casino, a 500-room hotel, marina and golf course.

Mississippi Gaming Corp. Vice President Sharon Petty said the development may be completed in phases, but when completed would be big.

Company officials said $10 million in private funds had already been raised and another $30 million will be sought through a public stock offering to help finance the project.

Officials would not say when construction would begin.

Petty said an engineering study and wetlands survey had been completed and requests for a permit to dredge a channel and marina basin and build

Waveland delays work: Shows

BY DAVID A. FARRELL

AND JACQUI COCHRAN
Southern District Highway Commissioner Ronnie Shows told Rotarians Wednesday that the delay of Waveland officials to move gas lines is holding up work on the Hwy. 603 four-lane project now underway.

He said work is about 30 days behind schedule because of the problem.

"I understand that Waveland says it does not have the money, and I can understand the financial problem. But it's got everyone in a bind. We need the lines moved," said Shows.

Waveland Mayor Stella Frilot stated, "It is not the delay of Waveland officials, it is the lack of funds."

She said upon notification by the highway department of the need to move the underground lines, the city applied for an urgent needs grant.

"We were rejected on our grant application a day or two before meeting with highway department personnel for negotiations last month," she said.

addressed Bay St. Louis Rotarians at a noon luncheon.

Shows said he hoped the problem could be worked out, but he said the danger now exists of additional charges being assessed to Waveland if "Evidently Mr. Shows is not aware that we met with his people and negotiated an agreement for the highway department to move the lines for the city."

Frilot

Currently, the state highway department is widening 603 into a four-lane highway from Stennis field to Hwy. 90, to accommodate increased traffic.

In such projects utility owners have to pay costs of moving their utilities, said Shows, who the state is assessed charges by the contractor because of the delays.

He said all utilities have been moved except the gas lines.

He said the contractor on the

OBITS—Page 3A

Clarification

In a June 20 front page story entitled "Diamondhead election" The Sea Coast Echo quoted Charlie Banister as saying the Diamondhead Property Owners Association had 30 days by Mississippi law to call an election and they failed to do so in the designated time.

POA board attorney Jim Persons of James B. Persons and Associates in Biloxi, claims the POA notice was issued timely.

He said the statute, under the Mississippi Code applicable to notices, reads that if the 30th day falls on a Saturday, Sunday or holiday, then the notice must be issued on the next business day. In this case, that would have been Tuesday because of the Memorial Day holiday on Monday.

He said, "Notices were placed no later than Tuesday, the first business day after that Saturday."

The board called for a July 14 special meeting for members to present candidates to determine whether or not a recall election of the board is needed.

Missing girl found dead in Alabama

BY LIZ HAAS

The body of Erin Guthrie Moon, 16, who was reported missing from Anniston, Ala., June 5, was found June 16 south of I-20 near the Calhoun and Cleburne County lines in Alabama, reported Lieutenant Barry Williams of the Anniston Police Department.

The Calhoun County coroner ruled the death a suicide and determined the approximate time of death was 9 p.m. on the date she was discovered missing, June 5.

Williams said Moon's body was discovered by workers in a rural area of the county in a sod farm. She had a single gunshot wound to the head, and a gun was found near her body.

Anniston Police were conducting an investigation, but the area where the body was found was under the sheriff's department's jurisdiction.

"She had gone well beyond where she was known to frequent, so we did not discover anything in our search in that area," reported Williams.

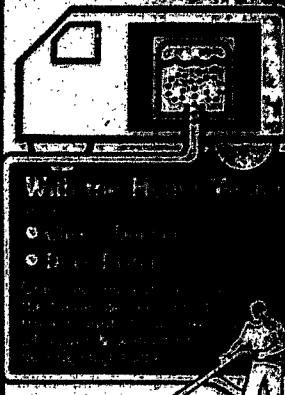

Moon's parents, William W. Moon of Bay St. Louis and Sandra Guthrie of Anniston, Ala., had searched for their daughter since her disappearance.

She was a native of New Orleans and a resident of Bay St. Louis for 10 years, where she attended Bay St. Louis city schools. She was recently chosen as a varsity cheerleader at Anniston High School.

"QUOTABLE QUOTES"

By Ellis C. Cuevas

As I have mentioned previously, I always 'shudder' when I see youngsters riding in the back of a pickup.

I would like to tell you about an incident involving a pickup on Highway 90 with two teenagers in the back.

I was traveling west on 90 and stopped for the Main Street red light. In my lane about five vehicles in front of me were two teenagers jumping up and down in a pickup.

It was about 7 p.m. and traffic was heavy at the time. As the light changed I could still see the heads of the two teenager bouncing up and down a few times.

About a block down the road, I saw the truck cross the center of the road moving to the right lane and at the same time, one of the youths rolled out of the truck making a tumble set.

He rolled into the right lane of traffic. The motorist behind the pickup in that lane had to make an emergency stop to keep from running over him.

The youngster got up and started to run after the pickup, which had stopped on the side of the highway as three of his 'buddies' came running back to him.

As I passed them, it looked like the one who had fallen from the truck had brush burns. The black pickup had a Harrison County tag on it.

I was unable to stop, as I was in traffic. The youth appeared not to have been hurt too badly.

He came so close of being run over by the vehicle in the right lane, not to mention that he could have landed on his head and had his brains spread across the highway.

He was very lucky the motorist in the right lane was observant and alertly stopped in time to keep from running over him.

The reason I mention this is to place emphasis on how dangerous it is to ride in the back of a pickup truck, and this danger increases when one is 'cutting up.'

Enough accidents happen without someone trying to be deliberately careless, and teenagers should be aware of the dangers of 'showing off.'

The Selective Service is seeking all persons nationwide who were involved drafting men into military service during World War II.

This would be anyone who worked for a local draft board in the early 1940s. This does not mean the millions of draftees.

The Selective Service System wants to give these persons a letter of appreciation, commemorative posters and distinguished Selective Service lapel pins.

Among the early members of the Selective Service board for Hancock County were the late Leo W. Seal Sr., Laurent Dickinson and E.J. Arceneaux.

There may still be others alive who worked as volunteers or employees of the Selective Service in Hancock County during World War II. There may be others who have moved from other areas.

Col. Vernon Sills (Ret.), state director of Selective Service for Mississippi, reports that records showing who worked with Selective Service during the war were not kept. Selective Service offices, or Draft Boards as they were known, were in just about every city of the nation.

If you think you qualify, contact Col. Sills, by calling (601) 373-3443, or write to 2934 Longwood Drive, Jackson, MS 39212.

Don't forget the Hancock County Chamber of Commerce's Morning Edition set for 7:30 a.m. Friday at the Mississippi Power Company's auditorium, Bay St. Louis.

I hope to see you at the Morning Edition.

Taylor announces $21 million appropriation for area bases

U.S. Rep. Gene Taylor announced that the U.S. House of Representatives has approved more than $21 million to upgrade facilities at Keesler Air Force Base in Biloxi, Camp Shelby in Hattiesburg and Gulfport's Air National Guard Combat Readiness Training Center.

The U.S. House of Representatives overwhelmingly approved the appropriations as a part of the Military Construction Appropriations Bill of 1994. The uncontroversial bill has been sent to the Senate for approval where it is expected to pass.

Once approved, Gulfport's Air Guard facility will receive $5.5 million to build troop quarters, replace underground fuel storage tanks and upgrade the base's antiquated power system.

Gulfport Air Guard commander, Col. Gary Cazier, praised the House's decision to improve the base's facilities.

"These upgrades will assure the best possible training military pilots can get," said Cazier. "South Mississippi is a prime training area because of our un congested air-space and the Air Force, Army, Marines and Guard all know this."

In a letter written by Taylor on April 21, 1993 to the Subcommittee's chairman, U.S. Rep. Bill Hefner, D-N.C., Taylor stressed the need for South Mississippi's military facilities.

"The facilities currently in use at Gulfport's Air National Guard Training Center were built 40 years ago. Visiting personnel must reside in open barracks with as little as 54 square feet per person," said Taylor in the letter. "Living space is so cramped that if there were a fire, personnel would have to climb over their own gear to escape."

Taylor also stressed in the letter that Camp Shelby was in great need of $6 million to begin Phase I construction of a regional school training facility.

"This state-of-the-art facility will include barracks areas for squad and platoon level personnel, administrative work areas, classrooms, libraries, dining rooms and medical rooms," said Taylor. With learning facilities scattered all over the base, it just isn't conducive to learning. This project will change all that by centralizing learning facilities."

Another key to the appropriations bill is the $8.7 million slated for improvements at Keesler Air Force Base. Keesler will receive $690,000 to build a fire training facility, $600,000 for underground fuel storage tanks, $2.9 million to upgrade the bases sewer system and $4.5 million to renovate student dorms.

Taylor praised the House and Chairman Hefner for their recognition of the vital role South Mississippi's bases play in the defense of our country.

FROM THE SENATE

By Senator Trent Lott

Mississippi in the hunt

Sometimes, even after winning the championship and fighting the good fight, you don't get the spoils of victory. This is what happened to Jackson, Miss., while competing for one of the Department of Defense's Defense Finance and Accounting Service centers, or DFAS as it is commonly known.

The Department of Defense solicited bids from communities interested in competing for a DFAS center — four to seven centers were planned to be awarded. Former Secretary of Defense Dick Cheney established this process in order to save money and improve the efficiency of DFAS through consolidation. Jackson and the state of Mississippi proposed the old Jackson Mall as the site to house one of the centers and entered the competition to win DFAS.

Here's brief account of how to contest unfolded:

June 1991 — The Department of Defense announced the Opportunity for Economic Growth competition — a policy inviting communities to compete in a process for selecting consolidated Defense Finance and Accounting Service center sites.

December 1, 1992 — I received a letter from the Comptroller of the Department of Defense listing Jackson as one of 20 final sites for consideration — this, out of an original list of 216 sites, in 112 communities, from 33 states.

March 15, 1993 — Displeased with Sec. Aspin's decision, Sen. Cochran, Sen. Phil Gramm of Texas and I asked the Base Closure Commission to assume jurisdiction of the DFAS consolidation.

March 26, 1993 — I wrote Sec. Aspin expressing my concern that the DFAS-site selection process was becoming "politicized."

March 29, 1993 — The Base Closure Commission requested the Pentagon's report on the consolidation of DFAS.

May 27, 1993 — I wrote the Base Closure Commission regarding my discovery of a March 2, 1993 internal Department of Defense memo to Sec. Aspin that contained an enclosure clearly identifying Jackson as a winning DFAS site. The enclosure mentions adding "over 3,000 civilian jobs... with plans for another 1,300 jobs in the subsequent four years."

June 7, 1993 — Sec. Aspin announced that he will scrap the Cheney competition and begin a new process starting with, but not limited to, the list of 20 finalist sites.

This decision is blatantly unfair. Even if Jackson had not won, it still would be unfair. And, besides the obvious, the Cheney proposal to consolidate over 300 sites worldwide to four or seven centers would save over a billion dollars between now and 1999.

Lines were drawn, rules were made and a competition was held. Each community dedicated economic resources, time and money, in good faith, toward the promise of an end. Then, the new administration and the Department of Defense defaulted on that promise at the end of the game.

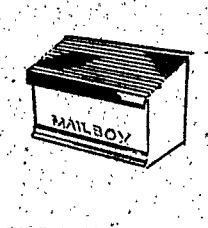

The point is that this is a legal question instead of a political one. This doesn't need to be looked at as partisan politics, but rather as a question of whether or not the Department of Defense can do what it did. I am not convinced they can and that's why I am looking into the complete episode.

Regardless, Jackson, the Governor's office and the entire state have done an excellent job, no matter what the outcome. I'm extremely proud of the effort shown by Mississippi toward this project, and I'm proud that we did win.

What all this brings me to is this — time was when Mississippi wouldn't even compete for something like a DFAS center. Those days are gone. And, even if we don't win DFAS during the second round, I know we'll battle for it all the way.

Mississippi is competitive. Mississippi has proven her worth. Mississippi is a force. Mississippi is in the hunt.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Youth's act of kindness speaks volumes for teens

To the Editor,
Sunday, June 20, my husband and I were on our way to Louisiana to spend Father's Day with friends, when we had a tire blow-out on Hwy. 90. While we were in the process of changing the tire, a young man drove up, offered not only to help change the tire, but to help us put the car in a safe place until we could find someone to put on a new tire. He drove us home and didn't want to take anything for his trouble. He made a comment that he had always been taught to help other people. We would like to compliment Judge Joe and Mrs. Dobson for raising such an upstanding young man and also to thank young Joe again for his help. There are not enough good things said and written about our teenagers today and there are a lot of great kids out there if given half a chance.

Sincerely,
H. A. "Bob" and
Georgette Torgersen

Favre nominates citizens for MMA recognition

Bay St. Louis Mayor Eddie Favre has announced nominations for "Making Mississippi Move" awards to be presented by the Mississippi Municipal Association at its July conference on the Gulf Coast.

Individuals nominated include:

Charles H. Gray, Hancock County Historical Society, for his efforts in historic preservation of the Kate Lobrano House and the preservation of records of the history of Bay St. Louis; Yancy Pogue, co-chairman, "A Place of Art", Bay St. Louis Development Foundation, outstanding cultural event;

Robert Landry, Community Associates, "This Property Is Not Condemned", redevelopment master plan for the Depot District, and

The mayor's office further nominated Bay St. Louis Recyclers, the city's recycling partnership with Gulf Coast Recycling; Citizen Participation Programs; the city's logo and the Sunset Limited Inaugural run celebration were nominated in the promotion category.

"Not one of these nominations could have been made if the City of Bay St. Louis or the individuals did not have community wide support and involvement," said Favre.

The "Making Mississippi Move" awards were designed by the Mississippi Municipal Association to recognize deserving individuals or municipalities for the institution of innovative programs which improve the quality of life of the municipality in some manner. The individuals may be municipal officials, municipal employees, or volunteers within the community.

The city has also been nominated for the inaugural "Livable Community" awards in recognition of outstanding and successful efforts to improve the quality of life experience in individual Mississippi cities and towns for their citizens and visitors. Special emphasis will be placed on programs and projects that can be effectively transferred to other communities.

The "Livable Community" awards are sponsored by the Mississippi Municipal Association and the Clarion Ledger.

DIAMONDHEAD SENIORS

Attention, ladies and gentlemen. A nice hot lunch is served every Friday at the Bay St. Louis Senior Citizens Center. The bus picks you up at the Diamondhead Dairy Queen at 8:30 a.m. and returns about 1:15 p.m.

Join your friends and neighbors for a Get Away in the Bay Day. It's fun!

NOT 1, BUT 2

On Thursday, June 17 approximately 68 people gathered at the community center for a bridge marathon with proceeds collected to help a diabetic child attend summer camp at Twin Lakes in Florence, Miss.

The goal was $400. Thanks to the participants, the folks who made contributions through the American Diabetic Association Mississippi affiliate, a total of $555 was collected, enabling not one, but two children between the ages of 7 and 15 to enjoy the pleasures of summer camp.

There were no expenses involved, and many thanks to the Diamondhead merchants who donated items so that 10 door prizes and four score prizes could be given to some deserving folks.

A big thank-you also goes out to the Diamondhead Lions Club for their involvement in this worthwhile cause. Sincere appreciation to Mrs. Joel Bourgeois and her helpers for putting this together. Doesn't this type of effort just warm your hearts?

ACADEMY HAPPENINGS

classrooms are empty for summer vacation time, but the Academy Day Camp has space available for their next sessions the weeks of July 12 and 19. The children attending are having a grand time horseback riding, swimming and doing arts and crafts. To register for the next sessions, please call 255-1784.

JAZZ IT UP

Those folks who will be attending the new Women's Club jazz brunch on Sunday, June 27 at 11:30 a.m. at the Day's Inn are really in for a treat.

The Inn promises a wonderful brunch buffet with all the trimmings, topped off with champagne and your favorite music. The price is $14 per person.

Laura's proud parents are Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy Moore on Diamondhead Drive North. Jim is postmaster in Hancock County. Way to go, Laura!

MORE ON GOLF

Dan Nelson, an avid golfer himself, is continuing to accept donations of anything pertaining to golf from ladies and gents in Diamondhead for his St. Stanislaus junior golf program's booster club.

He thanks all the friends who have given items so far, but says much more is needed for these kids to be able to play.

Please look around good for those old balls, clubs, gloves, etc. and give Dan a call at 255-3034.

JULY 4TH IN DIAMONDHEAD

The Diamondhead Youth Organization is sponsoring a cake walk at the festivities under the oaks at the county club, which includes fun things for all ages, such as food, games, music and, yes, even a parade.

Lots of cakes are needed, as well as entrants for the parade. Please call Leslie at 255-7638

Bridge marathon proceeds sent two to special camp for details. Let's make it a great birthday celebration.

MY THOUGHTS

We spend so much time looking for the right person to love or finding fault with those we already love, when instead we should be perfecting the love we give to others. This is the only way we can ever be truly satisfied with anyone or anything—for in loving we find love itself.

Love one another, and have a beautiful week.

COOKING UP A STORM

By Katy McGuire
Caire

Keen on peaches —
grilled or stuffed

There aren't many things tastier, to me, than a sun-ripened peach, dripping sweet juice, or a topping of fresh peaches on homemade ice cream or a fresh peach cobbler warm from the oven, or I could go on and on!

With our bountiful peach crop, we can indulge to the fullest our cravings for this luscious fruit. I'm glad that we have peaches, from our own state and others, in such bounty — and also that they sell for so much less these days than the $5 apiece which was their price in Queen Victoria's day in England. And, I've read somewhere that the ancient Romans paid almost that much, the equivalent of $4.50 for a solitary peach!

A favorite since the beginning of history, the peach is a native of China, whence it was brought through Asia in trade caravans, picking up the name "Persian Apple" along the way in the trek through what was then Persia. It is said that Spanish explorers brought the peach to the New World in the early 17th century, planting the fruit in Mexico.

French settlers planted peaches in the Louisiana territory; English colonists at Jamestown and in the Massachusetts colony, and the Indians brought the peach tree inland. Here in America through the years we've been enjoying peaches in pies and breads and cobbler as an accompaniment to ham or chicken or other dishes — delicious!

I'm on old "peach-stuffer" from 'way back when; it's easy. Simply peel the peaches, after fresh berries, sprinkle brown sugar over, cover with meringue, and bake at 450 degrees for 5 to 15 minutes or until the meringue turns golden. Or —

Fill the halves with grated cheddar cheese, bake or broil and serve with broiled chicken or ham. Or —

For a quick dessert, spoon orange marmalade into peach halves and bake at 400 degrees for 5 minutes, then top each half with a marshmallow and bake for another 5 minutes. And, for a treat with baked ham or duck or pork or chicken, try:

GRILLED PEACHES

Peel, halve and pit 6 ripe peaches, then brush the cut halves with softened butter. Dot butter into each cavity, and coat with sugar. Broil the peaches until a glaze forms, then sprinkle with fresh lemon juice.

And, when you've a few almost-override peaches on hand, slice or mash them and heap upon your buttered toast for a breakfast delight. Or, chop or mash them well, and mix with softened butter or margarine, for a delicious peach butter for toast or biscuits or pancakes or waffles.

and other such dishes. But, in many other countries, and increasingly so in our land, cooks poach or bake or grill peaches, either as a dessert or dropping them ever so briefly in boiling water. Halve, remove the pits, and cook:

FISHIN' Y'ALL

By Jim Maness

It's time to go fishin' y'all. The past week was not one of the most productive weeks of fishin' that we have had lately. However, conditions this week should be quite a help for the fishin' next week. I say this because the wind and cloud conditions have enriched the Sound area.

To explain this statement I need to remind y'all that fish need oxygen to live, at least live fish need oxygen to breathe. The oxygen levels of the water of the Sound should have increased quite a bit over the past week because of the high waves.

When the wind creates waves it exposes more surface area of the water to the air. This means that more oxygen can be absorbed into the water for the fish to breathe. The clouds kept the sun from heating up the water. Cooler water can absorb more oxygen than warm water.

Now that I have gone over all of this foolishness, you have a right to ask "What does all of this mean to the fisherman?"

The answer is simple, man. I don't know. Really, what it means is that the fish are gonna become frisky, and all of that kind of stuff, so you can catch "more plenty" of them when you go fishin'.

The other benefit to all of the wind we had last week is the salinity of the water. Anybody who has been out to the Sound the past few days will know what I am talking about. The water is a nice green color and is as clear as it has been for a long time. The strong wind stirred up the water, but it also pushed in a whole big bunch of clear sea water to "flush out the Sound."

Before the winds came, the Turtle checked out most of the areas from Bayou Caddy to Heron Bay to Half Moon Island.

Weather conditions lay groundwork for better fishing in days ahead

While checking out these areas the turtle was in a terrible fix. The worst, most unimaginable thing that could ever happen to a fisherman happened to the Turtle.

The Turtle could not explain politely of course, to the catfish that was sticking into his hand, that he was unhappy with the catfish. He could not even question the catfish's ancestry. To make matters even more miserable, the Turtle had to accurately give the size and amount of his catch when he got back to the landing.

Before the Turtle gets carried away, he better explain that the person he took fishing is considered a lifelong friend of his, and probably one of the nicest people you could ever meet. The Turtle needs all of the help he can get to catch fish, and having Johnny Escarfuller and his father, Dr. Escarfuller go on a fishing trip with him seemed like just the type of help that was needed. Especially since Johnny Escarfuller is studying for the priesthood.

Someone must be looking out for Johnny because he caught all of the fish. Rotten bum! Was that thunder that I just heard?

The Turtle reports that on this trip flounders were caught at the mouth of Three Oaks Bayou using sparkle beetle sweetened up with a piece of shrimp. Specks were caught by Half Moon using live cacaohoes. There were a few Spanish mackerel in the area but they would not bite. A few croakers were caught just inside the mouth of Bayou Caddy.

WADE FISHERMEN

While talking about Bayou Caddy, all wade fishermen take warning. Dredging work has been going on in the Bayou Caddy area. There will be, and are now, some holes that are about nine feet deep in this area.

In the interest of safety it would be wise not to wade fish in this area. Water nine feet deep is usually over most people's head. If you step off into a hole this deep you might not come back up.

Don't forget to renew your fishin' license this week. You must have a saltwater license to fish the Sound starting July 1. Most places that sell freshwater licenses will also have the $4 saltwater license. This license is very important if you want good management of your saltwater fishing for the future.

This week's wonderful wise words: Don't get stuck by catfish with a priest on board.

I wonder if the word dirty rotten rasselrassel is acceptable to question the ancestry of a catfish stuck in your hand when a priest goes fishing with you, Turtle.

piers and an access road will be submitted soon to the state Bureau of Marine Resources.

Company officials said more detailed plans will be announced in about two weeks. Philip Garberg, who is past president of the Diamondhead Community Association (DCA) and still active in Diamondhead community affairs, said he felt that if the project develops, it will definitely have an impact on the economy of the area, but many Diamondhead residents feel the quality of life will decline as the area becomes more urban.

"It will impact us greatly, and I doubt there is anything we can do about it. I don't think the developers would commit that much money unless they had some assurance that they could go forward with the development," Garberg said.

Garberg said he felt the announcement would add impetus to moves by residents to incorporate Diamondhead into a city. He said area population is already over 4,000 and many new houses are under construction.

He added Diamondhead residents had already begun studying prospects of incorporating before the project was announced.

However, he said residents differ on whether to take that step.

"If we did incorporate we would be one of the largest cities in Hancock County," he added.

Garberg has lived at Diamondhead for eight years. John Smart, current DCA president, was out of town and unavailable for comment. DCA is a concerned Diamondhead residents group and is separate from the Property Owners' Association (POA), which collects dues and manages the Diamondhead residential development, which Purcell Co. also developed.

The newly announced casino project would be Hancock's second major casino development. Casino Magic was the first.

The public legal notice published Jan. 11 said the owners, operators, officers and/or major stockholders in the Mississippi Gaming Corp. were Charles H. "Kip" Reddick, president and chief executive officer and Petty, vice-president-finance and chief operating officer.

The notice listed Europa Cruises Corp. as sole stockholder. Officers and the corporation are based in Pensacola, Fla.

Paul Montjoy, POA general manager, said the No. 1 issue for residents and the POA board of directors is to see that any growth associated with the new casino is positive and does not negatively impact the quality of life at Diamondhead.

"Whether one favors or is against gambling there is a lot of concern out here about how this will impact the quality of life," Montjoy said.

Montjoy said access to the new casino would be a main issue and that the POA has always pushed for a separate access to any casino development that would not use Diamondhead roads. The Diamondhead residential area extends south of I-10 and the 404.5 acres abuts the Diamondhead residential section at some points, Montjoy said.

"The No. 1 issue would be to get the casino traffic out of Diamondhead," Montjoy added.

Montjoy said the introduction of gambling to Diamondhead "changes the numbers" regarding the issue of incorporation.

"It may speed up incorporation," he said. "But in the meantime, it doesn't mean that we wouldn't get any benefits out of gambling if we don't incorporate. Bay St. Louis got a lot out of gambling, and we want to, too."

He added, "Of course, the immediate impact on us will be the increased traffic and the influx of people into this area who are not a part of Diamondhead."

Montjoy said Diamondhead population has surpassed 4,000 and is approaching 5,000. "We could possibly hit 10,000 by the year 2000," he said. He said 1993 will see about 175 new homes added to the Diamondhead residential development.

be called Casino World.

Montjoy said on Wednesday he had no confirmations whether officials of the two companies will attend, but added, "If officials don't come, we will have a summary of all that we know about the proposed development."

Diamondhead residents active in community affairs expressed concern this week that the proposed development could have a negative impact on the quality of life, but also added there will be positive impacts, too. "What we want to do is minimize the negative and maximize the positive aspects of this," said Montjoy.

with the burglary of a second Corinth Street home and a Felicity Street residence, both committed on June 13, and a Ramoneda Street home on June 14.

Waveland Chief Jimmy Varnell reported Waveland charges against Garbillo include burglaries of two Whispering Pines residences and an attempted burglary of a dwelling on Whispering Pines, all committed on June 14.

"There are other burglaries in the investigative stage that we have not yet charged him with," said Varnell.

He reported that no stolen goods were recovered yet, but Waveland Police are following leads.

Varnell said Garbillo has family in the area, which may be what brought him to the area. Bay Police arrested Garbillo at a Shoreline Park residence.

"More arrests are anticipated," said Burleson, who is in charge of the investigation.

Assisting in the arrest were Deputies George Burleson, Kenny Hurt and Nathan Hoda, Officer Malley and Burleson.

project is continuing to do as much work as possible until the gas lines are moved.

Frilot added, "Evidently Mr. Shows is not aware that we met with his people and negotiated an agreement for the highway department to move the lines for the city. The city will pay back the highway department at zero percent interest."

She estimated the costs for moving the line near $300,000. "That is more than the city collects in taxes in one year and nearly more than what the city collects in two."

On another area highway project, Shows said turning lanes will be installed in Kiln at the 603-DeLisle Road intersection.

Shows said he was aware of the growth associated with the casino industry on the Gulf Coast and would do everything possible to help it.

But he reminded residents that before his agency can work on a highway or road, it must be in, or placed within, the state highway system, and that takes an act of the state legislature.

He said the state highway department was able to plan work for four-laning the Lorraine-Cowan Road into Gulfport from I-10 because Harrison County supervisors helped push legislation through the state legislature to get it into the system. "But that is very difficult to do," he said.

He said the state's largest highway project now underway, the $1.6 billion four-lane project passed by the legislature in 1987 and financed with a three cent per gallon gas tax, was indirectly helping the Gulf Coast by freeing up other funds. He said it helped free funds for reconstruction of portions of Hwy. 90.

He said that funds are also currently being sought for a feasibility study of a high-speed rail system from Mobile to New Orleans on the CSX line. He said after the feasibility study, funds for a demonstration will be sought. He said Alabama, Mississippi and Louisiana officials are pushing the project.

UNO prof death is suicide

BY DAVID A. FARRELL

The death of a University of New Orleans professor was ruled a suicide by the Hancock County coroner following an autopsy by forensic pathologist Dr. Paul McGarry on Tuesday morning, said Hancock County Sheriff Ronnie Peterson.

The body of Dr. Richard O. Baumbach, Jr., 55, 1410 Phillip St., New Orleans, was found about 4 p.m. on Sunday by a Bay St. Louis resident who was target practicing on a logging road about 2 miles south of the south gate at Stennis Space Center, said Peterson. The area is near I-10, a main route out of New Orleans.

Baumbach died from a shotgun blast to the face and was found lying near his automobile with a 12-gauge shotgun that belonged to him next to his body.

He was reported missing on Saturday after failing to show up for a noon luncheon. He was last seen about 9 that morning.

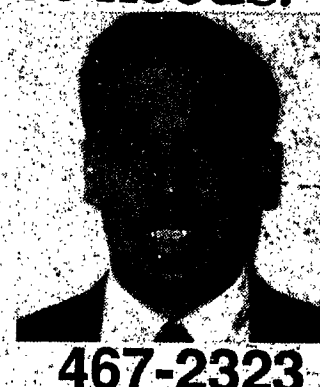

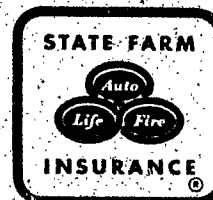

Baumbach was associate director of the Louisiana Urban Technical Assistance Center of the College of Urban and Public Affairs at UNO.

Peterson said an investigation revealed that Baumbach left most of his keys and his wallet at home and cleaned out the glove compartment of his car before leaving New Orleans.

The death was jointly investigated by Hancock and New Orleans law enforcement officials.

Hurricanes

Develop a family plan to prepare for the season

BY LIZ HAAS

With the arrival of the hurricane season it is essential for every family to enter the season prepared by developing a family plan of what to do in case of emergency, reports Hancock County Civil Defense Director Bobby Boudin.

The hurricane season began June 1 and goes through the end of October. Boudin said 10 Atlantic storms, five or six of which will have enough force to be named, are predicted for this season.

emergencies to find out which shelters are open and when they open.

GO EAST (OR WEST)

Another common mistake people make is evacuating to the north.

"I'd rather see everyone go east or west, except to New Orleans, to get completely out of the storm," he said.

He said if you head north to Jackson during a hurricane, you are still in danger of lightning, tornados and flash floods.

Boudin said if an evacuation is ordered, it is now a law to leave or be arrested.

"Sometimes people don't think. If their house is on stilts, they think they are fine because the water can't get to them. But what happens if they have an emergency and need to get to a doctor and they can't get out?"

"We have to go get them by boat, and that's very dangerous. Plus the phone lines may be down, so they can't call anyone for help," he said.

Boudin said people need to evacuate when ordered and get to a safe place where a doctor can get to them if needed.

A hurricane watch is a threat to coastal areas. A warning constitutes 74 mile per hour winds or more, high water and rough seas; land-fall is expected in a specific area within 24 hours; so take precautionary action immediately.

PREPARATION

The Hancock County Civil Defense Office suggests the following safety tips for hurricanes:

- have an established meeting place for all family members if evacuation is necessary;
- leave low-lying areas when warning is issued and seek safe shelter (public or private);
- moor boat securely or evacuate it;
- protect windows with tape, boards or shutters;
- fuel all vehicles;
- save several days water supply in covered containers;
- leave mobile home for more substantial shelter;
- listen for local weather service bulletins;
- take care of pets;
- take care of valuables such as pictures, papers, and other items that cannot be replaced.

Tornados may also be present during a hurricane. A tornado watch means tornados may develop. A warning means tornados have been detected and to take shelter.

HAVE A PLAN

"Each family needs to develop a family plan to know what they will do in the event of a hurricane or any other emergency to help themselves," said Boudin.

"For example, knowing whether they will stay at a shelter or with friends or relatives is important so the family knows who to contact and where to go," he said.

Boudin said people need to be able to survive on their own for a while.

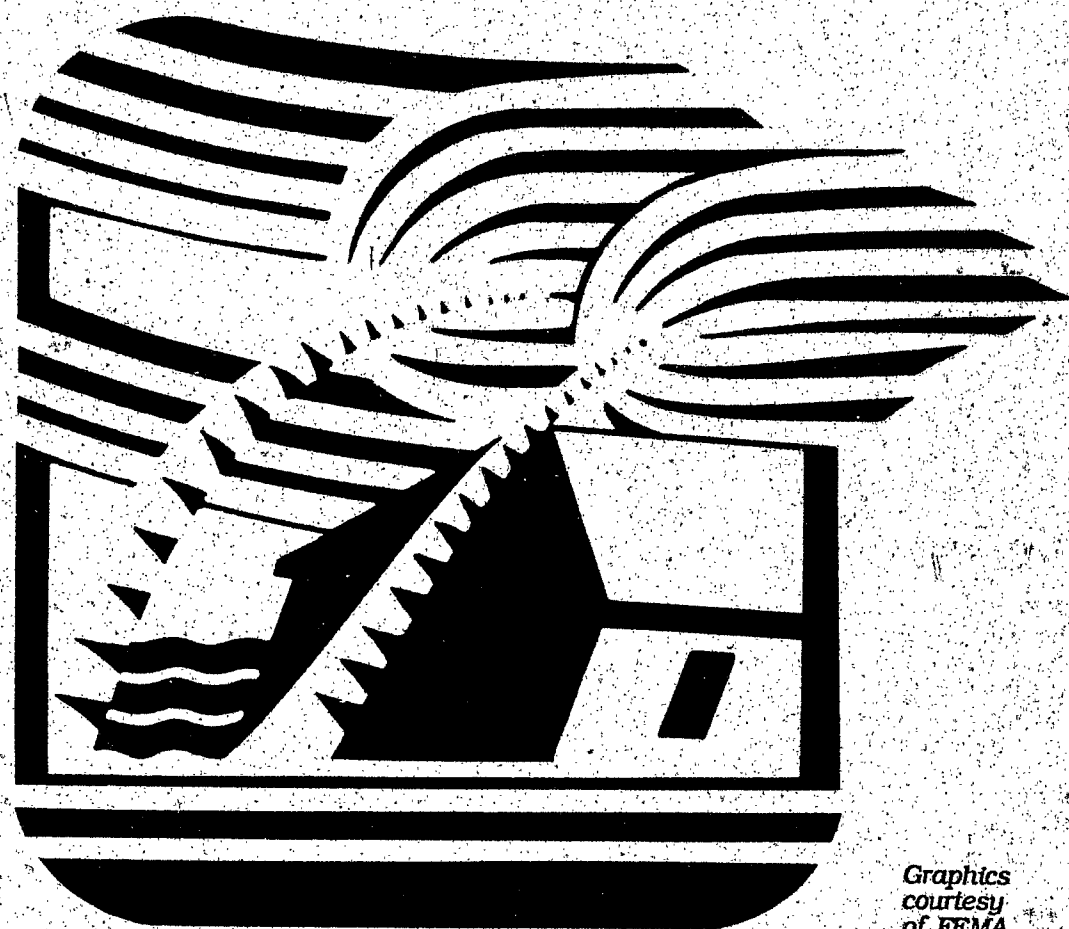

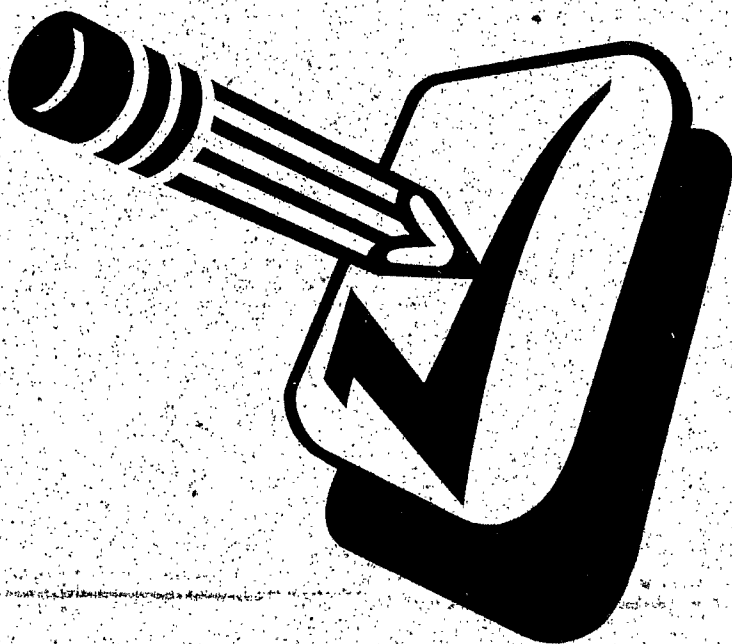

"For example, during Hurricane Camille, we had some really trying times. We were without electricity for 30 days and people had to adjust to that themselves," he said.

He said people need to know the area they live in and the potential dangers they may have to worry about, like a rising creek that could cause flooding.

Boudin said one big mistake people make during emergencies is watching or listening to half a dozen stations at one time.

"People should watch or listen to just one station to get their local information," he said.

Boudin said the area schools serve as emergency shelters, and people should stay tuned to local stations during

TRACKING

Boudin said Casino Magic is not going to move in the event of a hurricane.

"They will shut down and evacuate because it is a low-lying area," he said.

He said the Civil Defense has a new radar system that was donated to Hancock and Harrison counties by Casino Magic Corp.

"This will help us in tracking hurricanes because we will get a new up-to-date picture every 15 minutes," he said.

FEMA

The Federal Emergency Management Agency advises the following during hurricane season:

- planning a flood-free evacuation route;
- having flood insurance as financial protection;
- keeping a supply of non-perishable food, first aid kit, fire extinguisher, battery-powered radio, flashlights and extra batteries.

Before a storm comes:

- put tape criss-cross on the windows (to prevent flying glass);
- put boards or storm shutters over big windows;
- get a battery radio, flashlight and extra batteries;
- secure outdoor objects that may blow away.

During a storm you have not evacuated remain indoors and stay away from all windows.

The eye of the hurricane is a calm center. After it passes, it is followed by strong gusting winds from the opposite direction.

After the storm:

- If you are in public shelter, stay there until notified otherwise;
- keep tuned to local stations for information;
- stay out of disaster areas;

- don't drive unless you must;
- avoid loose or dangling wires;
- report broken sewer or water mains;

BOATS

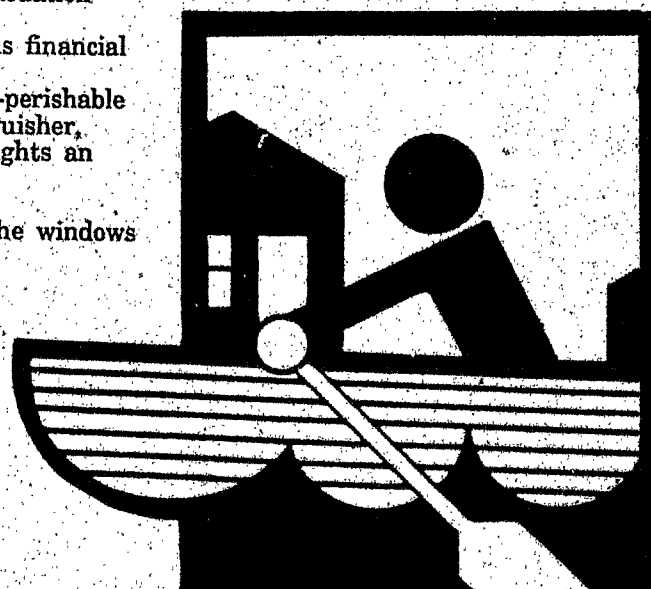

According to the Boat Owners Association of the United States since 1989, three major hurricanes—Hugo, Bob and Andrew—have caused $360 million in damage to recreational boats.

They suggest advanced planning can reduce the risk of severe boat damage.

Boat owners should secure their vessels before a storm hits.

Suggestions include:

- storage ashore for small boats;
- secure boats with adequate anchors,

- fenders and extra long lines;
- attach chafing gear to mooring lines and use duct tape to seal hatches, ports, windows, doors and vents;
- take home electronics, other valuable equipment and boat documents;
- evacuate boats during a hurricane.

For more information about emergency planning, contact the Civil Defense Office at 457-9226.

TORNADO SAFETY

The Civil Defense Office suggests the following when tornados are in the area:

- in homes take shelter under heavy furniture in the center of the house (hallways or bathrooms);
- in mobile homes evacuate when strong winds are forecast;
- in open country move at a right angle away from cloud to nearest depression and lie flat with your hands shielding your head;
- in a moving vehicle, stop, get out and find the nearest depression and lie flat with your hands shielding your head;
- in a boat move at a right angle away from the cloud;
- call the local Civil Defense as soon as possible to report the time, location and direction of travel.

Vo-Tech students win honors

Special to the Echo
Shon Autry and Mark Murray, from the Hancock County Co-Tech Center's Auto Mechanics program, competed as a team in the state finals of the Chrysler Troubleshooting Contest in Jackson.

The two students began competition in March by taking a written exam at Pearl River Community College. Approximately 25 schools participated in the written portion of the contest. The ten teams with the highest scores earned the right to advance to the "hands-on" contest in Jackson.

At the state contest, each team was allowed 90 minutes to repair a new Plymouth Caravan. "Bugs" (faults) were placed in each team's van. The team that finished first with the least number of faults in the allotted time won first place. After 90 grueling, tense minutes, the Hancock team emerged in third place.

At the awards ceremony, the Vo-Tech students were awarded the first place trophy for the highest score in the state for the written portion of the contest.

Autry is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Autry of Pearl River and is a junior at Hancock High School. Murray is the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth G. Layus of Bay St. Louis and is a senior at Bay High School.

Richard Byrd, auto mechanics instructor, said he is proud of the two young men for their outstanding ability.

"This outstanding accomplishment can be attributed to the 'hands-on' experience the students received in their vocational training, as well as their academic achievements," he said.

The results of his competition are an example of Tech-Prep which prepares students for tomorrow's technology through hands-on work and academic studies.
